

Student Presentations

Fractals: The Building Blocks of the Universe

Why is a dragon curve a fractal and where can I get one?
Come learn about the role that self-similarity plays in the universe.
Thursday, October 29

Math Classes Preview

Interested in taking your quantitative skills even further? Get a feeling for math classes at Baruch by working through a selection of problems from various courses.
Thursday, November 3

Brain Teasers

Tricky problems aren't so tricky when you know all the tricks.
Thursday, November 10

Math Interview Questions You Should Know

Go ahead, put math on your resume. But go to this presentation first.
Thursday, November 17

Thursdays, VC 9-117, 12:45-2:00 pm

Refreshments will be served.

<< Scan the QR code at left with your smartphone to go to our website at <http://baruchmathematicssociety.com>.